LIVERPOOL, England, May 23. You might think that England, with so many international activities under way in the broad realm of sport, would consider her sportive menu replete, not to say overflowing.

Yet the average Englishman is turning a yearning eye in the general Easy Victory in Third direction of Jersey City, U. S. A., where a Mr. Dempsey and a Mr. Carpentier will exchange costly salutations upon July 2.

Englishmen esteem a prizefight or a boxing match above every George D. Willner's three-year-old other sport. You can imagine how deep this affection for the game must be when you look back over the line of British heavyweights for the last thirty years, culminating in a Joe Beckett and a Bombardier Wells

They know quite a bit about Carpentier, but their main interest is n Jack Dempsey, whom most of them have never seen,

You can't start talking sport for two and a quarter minutes before you are frisked for your opinon concerning the champion.

There was a time when Carpentier was favored over here to win. The Frenchman whipped Wells in a stanza or two and stopped Beckett with a Naturally, when a man scrambles up the best two heavyweights in dropped back from the a nation, all inside of five rounds, that nation will be inclined to think well acked, was somewhat of him, with a leaning toward enthusiastic praise. If Carpentier could whip Beckett in a round he must be invincible.

But when Frank Moran dropped in upon the pugilistic constituency one day and soaked Beckett for a goal in less than two chapters. Carpentie naturally shed some of his glamour.

They still think he is a great fighting machine. But he is no

What They Think of Carpentier

Veteran English critics who have seen Carpentier in action figure that he has a good outside chance to win for two reasons, no matter what Dempsey may be.

The two reasons are that Carpentier is extremely fast and can hit like a battle-ax. Any fighter who carries these two prime requisites is the always dangerous, for a fast hitter who can hurt is likely to start some

Over here they seem to take it for granted that Dempsey must be a giant in build. They saw Fred Fulton's six feet five inches and his 240 pounds of displacement. And then they were told that Fulton was a pale old Elemndorf, wisp compared to Willard. And Dempsey knocked Willard down sever

Many of them are astonished to hear that Dempsey won't weigh a much when he meets Carpentier as Beckett weighed.

"Carpentier," a well known fight critic remarked, "undoubtedly has peed, skill, brains, courage and the punch. You may say that is quite

"But is it? Can he take the pounding that Dempsey can take? Is h as rugged and as strong? These, also, are important matters to consider could readily see Neither Wells nor Beckett was able to prove his stamina, for he stopped it should prove both too quickly. The Beckett fight was very sad. But while we have never seen Dempsey, we understand he is not a slow moving Beckett.

New Experience

will be a novel experience for both men. Dempsey certainly has never burglary, which rove, should be met as fast and as skillful a boxer as the Frenchman is. He has never met one who has hit him as hard as the French champion can hit. In turn, Carpentier has never met a man in Dempsey's class. He has never met a fighter who had the same speed or the same terrific crushing power in his biows. He can't afford to take the chances he took with Wells and Beckett. He must be more careful, and this alone will take away some of his dash. But it will be a great fight while it lasts.

When an observant Scot first saw Woodie Platt step up and hit th ball while apparently still walking, he thought at first that George Duninvestigate in Great Britain, but even the nervous, speedy Scot has nothing on Platt race, a dash of five fur. as a swift traveler, whether through the fairways or upon the green. In surprise the course of an eighteen-hole match Woodie probably uses up about twenty-seven seconds between his seventy-six or seventy-seven strokes.
